PENNSYLVANIA OR YALE?

Championship of the East Claimed by Both Teams—Record of Leading Teams.

The football season has ended with the question of supremacy among the big teams undecided. Pennsylvania has had her best eleven in years, and her followers claim the championship, while Yale, with victories over Harvard and Princeton, holds that she is the leader. In the South the palm belongs to Georgetown, with Virginia second. The only opportunity of judging the relative strength of these two teams is by their scores against North Carolina.

DR. JOSEPH REILLY

HEAD GEORGETOWN COACH.

Mentioned to Succeed Maurice A. Joyce as Physical Director at Carroll Institute.

GEORGETOWN HAS ENOUGH OF LEHIGHBlue and Gray Decides to Drop Pennsylvanians.

FAILED TO KEEP CONTRACT

Threw Locals Down for Lafayette.
Explanation Unsatisfactory—Unable to Get Another Game.

Because of the peculiar action of Lehigh in not living up to her contract which called for a game here on Thanksgiving Day, Georgetown has decided to cut out the Pennsylvanians.

When on November 17, Manager Carlin, of the local team, received notice from South Bethlehem asking that the game be canceled because of the death of President Drown he heard that Lehigh was attempting to dispose of Georgetown so that she could meet Lafayette on Thanksgiving Day instead of last Saturday, as first scheduled.

In his answer the Blue and Gray manager stated he wished the first arrangement to stand, and said that he hoped Lehigh would see it that way, but instead of consenting Manager Thornburg at once wired back that the cancellation was final, and said that he hoped that Georgetown would go ahead and play New York University, as was suggested in the first telegram. Knowing that the New Yorkers had a poor team and that they would not draw in this City Manager Carlin sent word that if Lehigh played Thanksgiving Day Georgetown would insist that she play here according to contract. To this telegram the local management has not received an answer.

Efforts to Arrange Game.

Seeing that it would be impossible to force Lehigh to fulfill her engagement, Georgetown made every effort to arrange a game. Word was sent to Syracuse, Swarthmore, Brown, Vanderbilt, Virginia Polytechnic Institute, and several other institutions, asking them to play on Thanksgiving Day, but the teams had either already scheduled, or had broken training, and as it was impossible to get a contest. The result was that for the first time in several years Washington was without a Thanksgiving Day game.

So anxious was Manager Carlin to arrange a game that he wired the University of Michigan to send her team on to meet the Blue and Gray, but the Westerners wired back that as much as they would like to play Georgetown their coach, Vost, was in the East, the team had broken training, and that Michigan would be unable to accept the invitation this year.

Financial Loss.

Aside from the disappointment at Lehigh's decision, Georgetown sustained a big financial loss. The contract with Lehigh called for a guarantee of $450, and as the day was most auspicious, there being no other football game, and as Lehigh, because of her large alumni here, has always been a drawing card, the Blue and Gray association would undoubtedly have made a large profit. The Georgetown student body had decided upon Thanksgiving as the day that it would turn out en masse as a testimonial of appreciation for the fine work that the varsity eleven had done in all the games.

After thoroughly considering the matter the Georgetown athletic authorities have decided to drop Lehigh.

ROADWAY IN SECOND PLACE

Winner at Head of Individual List,
With Staub Second, With Eastern Team Last.

Nothing seems to be able to stop the Mechanical team in the Washington Railway Relief Association Bowling League, and it keeps right on with a clean record.

Last week the Mechanicals met three teams and landed three victories, leaving the score clean, with fifteen games won and none lost. The Roadways are also doing some good work, for after losing three games early in the season they appear to be invincible, and have a record of twelve games won and three lost.

Wenner, of the Mechanicals, leads in total pins, with 2,572, and in percentage with 71.8. He is followed by Staub, with a percentage of 70.13. The highest score has been made by Meyers, of the Mechanicals, who knocked over 245 in one game, and that is liable to stand for some time.

The scores are as follows:
	Won.	Lost.	Pct.
Mechanicals	15	3	1.600
Roadway	12	3	.800
Columbia	12	3	.800

SPORTING COMMENT.

Arthur Curtis, the head coach at Wisconsin, declares that Michigan is the best of the Middle Western teams. Minnesota is Michigan's leading rival for the leadership of the Western eleven, each year, but this season the Gophers have not been so successful as the team which Yost turned out.

Jimmy Ryan says that he has two offers to manage National League clubs next season under consideration. It was thought that when the old outfielder went to Colorado, he was about done for, but he has bobbed up again. It's the same old story of "You can't keep a good man down."

None of the members of the Pittsburg club will be asked to sign contracts until after the holidays, as Dreyfuss wants to give the men plenty of time to think it over.

The Amateur Athletic Union has awarded the right to hold the 1,000-yard championship to the Pastime Athletic Club, to be decided at the indoor meet to be held under the auspices of that club in Madison Square Garden on New Year's Eve. An exceptionally large number of middle-distance cracks are expected to compete.

Under the heading, "Connecticut League News," in the "Sporting Life," there is a note: "Dan O'Neil, Jr., has resigned from baseball, into football, and is now a leading candidate for a line position at Holy Cross." How's that for amateurism?

REILLY SUCCEEDS
PROFESSOR JOYCEWill Be Physical Instructor at Carroll Institute.

HAS HAD LONG EXPERIENCE

Served on Georgetown Track and Football Teams, and Rowed on Crew.

Dr. Joseph A. Reilly has accepted the offer from the Carroll Institute to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Prof. Maurice A. Joyce, as director of physical culture.

Prof. Joyce held the office for many years, but was obliged to step out because of the demands of his woman's gymnasium upon his time, and, besides, he had received an offer from the directors of the Fourth Presbyterian Church to take charge of the parish athletic association, which is devoted exclusively to the development of physical culture among its members.

Produced Results.

Dr. Reilly was head graduate coach of the Georgetown team during the past fall and succeeded in developing one of the best gridiron aggregations that ever represented the university. In his four years under the Blue and Gray, Reilly was a leading member of both the field and track and the football teams, and had the honor of captaining both, besides rowing one year on the varsity eight at Poughkeepsie. His home is in Boston, and during his vacations from college has had the advantage of making a thorough study of the system taught by Director Sargent, of the Harvard gymnasium.

For the past few years Carroll Institute's athletic pastimes have been confined to gymnasium classes and bowling, but now that Dr. Reilly has been engaged to take charge of all athletics it is likely that the organization will branch out into other activities, and during the coming winter will be represented at the different local indoor meets by a relay team. In the spring the Institute will again put a ball team in the field, and play in the Capital City League, as it did last summer.

HAVE OYSTER ROAST TODAY

Big Doings in Monumental City for Washington's Champion Oarsmen.

Good at New Sport.

The Potomac Boat Club went to Baltimore yesterday to be the guest of the Arundel Boat Club. Most of the Potomacs are there yet.

The Washingtonians were given the glad hand and other things by their Baltimore brothers in the noble art of tearing up the inoffensive water. More things will be given today, principally an oyster roast. An oyster roast at the Arundel boathouse is a source of pleasant memories and indignation for many moons to those who have the privilege of partaking of the hospitality of the Baltimoreans, for the oysters are generally but a small part of the bill of fare.

Last night the Washington boys played basketball with their hosts in the Baltimore Athletic Club gymnasium, and smote them hip and thigh to the tune of 23 to 20. The Potomacs have been better known as oarsmen than as gymnasium athletes, and their quick, aggressive work surprised the boys from the Monumental City. Daily was the star for Washington, throwing more than half the goals.

WOMAN KILLED HUSBAND

AT HER BROTHER'S HOME

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Nov. 26.—Edward C. Dingess, living at Dingess, Mingo county, was shot and fatally injured this afternoon, by his wife. The shooting occurred at the home of Mrs. Dingess' brother, where the husband had followed his wife to persuade her to return home.

They had parted some weeks ago, and Dingess today tried to force his wife to return to his own fireside, whereupon she seized her brother's revolver and shot twice, both bullets taking effect, either of which would have been mortal.

BLAZE IN PAWTUCKET

INVOLVES $50,000 LOSS

PAWTUCKET, R. I., Nov. 26.—The dry goods and furniture store of Shar-teneberg and Robinson, the largest in the city, was damaged to the extent of about $50,000 by fire today.

SOLUTION OF A MYSTERY.

A statue of Daddo, founder of the first Babylonian dynasty, which has just been unearthed at Adab, where it was set up 6,000 years ago, is said to bear a striking resemblance to our own twentieth century Launcey M. Depew. There are carping minds which will think they get an inkling now of the ancestry of the Depew anecdote.—Boston Transcript.

Ogress Won Hunters
Champion by a LengthSeries of Accidents Marred Sport—Dimple
Annexed the Vestal Easily—Oclawaha at 60 to 1 Landed First.

The promise of good sport held out by the Vestal Stakes, the Hunters' Champion Steeplechase, and five well-thought overnight races drew another large crowd to Benning yesterday afternoon.

Not so large by several thousand as the Thanksgiving Day attendance, but a good crowd nevertheless, and one intent on getting all the enjoyment possible out of the waning racing season. And it was a lucky crowd, also, as four favorites won for the form following while the victories of Oclawaha at 100 to 1 and Cedarström at 30 to 1 brought joy to a small army of pickers.

Real Feature.

The Hunters' Champion was the real feature of the day, but a series of accidents, one of which looked for a time as if it would have a serious if not a fatal ending, detracted much from the interest of the race. Three horses fell. The first to go down was Charles O'Malley, who fell at the Liverpool, with Otto Heller, who, though badly drawn, was quickly revived. There was no further trouble until the run through the front stretch began the second time. At the first fence R. B. Sack fell with Mr. Holloway, who sustained a badly bruised shoulder, but was otherwise unhurt.

It was at the next fence that the really serious accident of the run occurred. Mr. Stone had the mount on Libretto II, and in the run to the fence the horse wedged in between Ogress and Landslide. He was in no position to take off properly for the jump, but through it and fell heavily to the ground. Mr. Stone went over his head and fell heavily at full length on the sod. He never moved, and it was feared that he was seriously injured. The accident occurred almost directly in front of the stand and in plain sight of the entire crowd, which gave a shudder of apprehension as it realized that the fall was a nasty one.

Carried on Stretcher.

Mr. Stone was taken to the jockeys' room on a stretcher. He recovered consciousness on arrival there, and an examination revealed the fact that he was only suffering from shock and a slight strain wound. The crowd could hardly believe that he had got off so lightly and was inclined to doubt the truth of the report until the popular rider had dressed and walked into the grandstand enclosure just before the last race.

The Champion, as its name indicates, was for qualified hunters. Nine hunt clubs from various sections of the country were represented, as follows: Fine Hill Hunt, by Charles O'Malley; Essex Hunt, by Libretto II and Silent Bliss, running as Charles Pitzer's entry; Green Spring Valley, by Landslide; Meadow Brook, by Pure Pepper; Cameron Run, by Collingford Evidence; Warrenton, by Richelieu II; Overland, by Ogress, and Westchester, by R. B. Sack. The Maryland folk had all the best of it as the race resulted in a two-horse affair between Ogress and Landslide. Ogress was piloted by Mr. Taylor, and was the 2 to 1 favorite. Mr. Spicer rode the Landslide, who was backed from ten to seven on the strength of a reputation gained at the small meetings in Maryland and Pennsylvania.

Two Drew Away.

After Silent Bliss had led for more than a mile, and had then retired, Ogress and Landslide drew away from the others and fought it out to the end, Ogress winning by a length. Pure Pepper was third, a hundred lengths back. A piece of plate valued at $100 went to the rider of the winner.

The Vestal was a three-horse race, with two of the starters running in the interest of the Albemarle Stable. They were Dimple and Marjoram, and coupled as an entry. They so far outclassed Ruby Hempstead, the other starter, that the bookies would only take 1 to 3. Ruby Hempstead was backed on the report of good work, but it was a false alarm. The distance was one and one-half miles. Marjoram, after leading half the route, gave way to Dimple, who won very easily from her stable companion. The race was worth $2,500 to the winner.

Opened at 100 to 1.

The sport began with the success of Oclawaha, who was backed from 100 to 1 to 60 to 1. Arsenal, Yo San, and Young Henry carried the wise money, but with the exception of Yo San, who led for a few furlongs, the choices cut no figure in the running. Yo San passed it up at the stretch turn, while Oclawaha and Von Rosen, a 30 to 1 chance, fought it out to the wire, the former winning by a few inches. There had been a lot of small play on the winner, and the yell of the pickers went up all the rabbits and birds in the hills and woods in the neighborhood.

It looked like a long-shot day, for Cedarström, quoted at 30 to 1, galloped away with the second event, winning half a length from Novena, who beat the even money favorite, Yeoman, by the same scant margin.

Dekabar Favorite.

Pasadena was passed by the fifth race in favor of Dekabar, who was backed from 3 to 1 to 2 to 1, while the quotation against the former picked up to three to one. The smart players were badly fooled in this instance, for Pasadena went to the front at the end of the first quarter and galloped on to an easy victory over Gamara, who beat the favorite a length. Balkal and Pasour, the public choices for the sixth and seventh races, respectively, had little difficulty to win. They were both well played.

Summaries.

First race—Selling; for three-year-olds and upward; seven furlongs. Oclawaha, 100 to 1, won; Von Rosen, 24 (Walsh), 20 to 1, second; Woodshade, 89 (Henderson), 7 to 1, third. Time, 1:30. Arsenal, Yo San, Clear the Arena
